Dedications

To Mike,
my husband of 22 years
(or something like that).

With love,

Maria

To Deb.

With love,

Miraz

Thanks from Maria

To Miraz, for bringing her vast knowledge of WordPress to this project and answering the seemingly stupid questions I managed to come up with regularly.

To Nancy Davis and Tracy O'Connell, for putting up with lengthy delays and uncertain futures, not to mention the usual wait, wait, hurry situations that have characterized many of my projects these days. (I'm getting old, but am determined to reach my goal of 100 books before burnout causes brain death.)

To David Van Ness, for his usual upbeat, can-do attitude and production assistance.

To Julie Bess for another index, quickly and expertly prepared.

To the Camden Lady, for allowing us to show off her blog as a sample in the Introduction of this book.

To the WordPress development team, the plugin authors, the support volunteers, and open source programmers everywhere, for making WordPress and other free software available and easy to use.

And to Mike, for the usual reasons.

Thanks from Miraz

To Maria, for inviting me to join her in this exciting project, and freely sharing her expertise and experience.

To Rachel McAlpine, for bounteous support and encouragement.

To Virginia DeBolt, for sending me some stats to look at when I needed them, and the members of the Wise Women mailing list for asking great questions at just the right time.

To the WordPress team for making such great software, and the plugin authors, theme designers, Codex writers, forum contributors and bloggers for helping to make it such a versatile platform for self-expression, communication and community.

To my friends Carol and Lise, and my partner Deb, just for being themselves.
